We are committed to serving our communities through the COVID-19 pandemic by recovering, growing, and gleaning healthy, fresh food and making it available to all who need it. The health and safety of all community members is our primary focus.

We are operating in accordance with recommendations from the CDC, Vermont Department of Health, University of Vermont Extension, Vermont Agency of Agriculture, Food and Markets, and the State of Vermont.

Staff and volunteers commit to staying home if they feel unwell or have had exposure to COVID-19. We ensure frequent hand washing and maintain social distancing during volunteering events. Masks are encouraged for individuals who have not been fully vaccinated against COVID-19 when they are in close proximity to others outdoors, and may be required if working indoors, at a partner site, or at the Willing Hands facility.

For more information about the health and safety practices followed by Willing Hands, please do not hesitate to contact us directly: info@willinghands.org or call (802) 698-0265.
