Dear Friends,

I am excited to share with you this summary of our activities over the past fiscal year ending in June. In a year like no other, Willing Hands has succeeded in increasing our impact as well as supporting and engaging more community members than ever before. Drastic changes in our federal government have impacted farmers, food accessibility, and so much more. In addition, the growing season was complicated by other extremes—July flooding and our current drought conditions. Despite these challenges, Willing Hands has remained focused on increasing the amount of fresh food we recover, grow, glean, and deliver. We have partnered with new food donors to keep up with the community's rising needs. The footprint of our gleaning efforts is larger than ever with impressive volunteer participation. We are delivering more food to our hunger-relief partners. Thanks to generous supporters, Willing Hands remains a vital connection between local food producers and our neighbors who struggle to access nourishing, fresh food. This strong community network is crucial in alleviating food insecurity. Together, we are providing nutrition, stability, and hope for individuals and families in the Upper Valley. I look forward to staying in touch!

Warmly,

Gabe Zoerheide, Executive Director
